According to Berman, "It was our strategy to come up with a group of 10-15 people who would be able to do a 'big bang' presentation to the board, and then we would have a series of smaller meetings with individual board members to get their feedback and support."

The 1994 amendment to the statute and the subsequent regulatory changes to the rule promulgated by the state have resulted in a number of changes to the way that the rule is implemented. The changes are as follows:

These activities generated about 100,000 additional man-hours, with 40,000 in construction and 60,000 in transportation. With a 2000-mile rail line, average 100-mile passenger round-trip time, and 100,000 passengers per day, the system could carry 10 million passengers per year, or 10% of the 100 million passengers that would be carried by the rail system.

There is a significant negative effect of the number of years since the last visit on the probability of returning to the site. This suggests that the probability of returning to the site decreases as the number of years since the last visit increases.

SO THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW

To Our Valued Passengers, Shippers and the Public:

The Manila North Harbor, the country's main port serving domestic trade, commerce and passenger travel, was reduced to a picture of chaos and disorder this past week, causing inconvenience to passengers and losses to shipping companies and their customers because of delays.

The new port operator, the Manila North Harbour Port Inc., a joint venture of Harbour Centre Port Terminal Inc. and Metro-Pacific Investment Corporation, took over the operations of the port from the Philippine Ports Authority on Sunday, 11 April 2010, without prior notice to the port users and without having the readiness needed for efficient continued operations. This is in material breach of the ideal, orderly and moral process in any transition.

How did it get to this point?

- On 19 November 2009, PSA awarded to MNIPI the contract for the development and operation of the Manila North Harbor even if there was only one bidder, contrary to the instructions to Bidders of the PSA.
- The turnover had been scheduled 3 times (1 January, 15 January and 15 February) and each time was deferred for the same reasons: a) unresolved labor issues, b) MNIPI's non-compliance with the minimums required handling equipment, c) 1% concession fee disputed by port users that MNIPI would be allowed to charge third party service providers at the port - this fee, imposed without any added value, would add cost to the consumers, and, d) other legal grounds, namely inconsistencies between the Terms of Reference (TOR) and the Contract Award. These issues are still unresolved.
- The members of the Philippine Users Shipping Association (PUSA) challenged the MNIPI award before the Supreme Court on 5 April seeking for the nullification of the Contract and applying for a Temporary Restraining Order, Status Quo Ante-order or any equitable relief. Pending the Supreme Court case, the issue as to whether or not MNIPI could legally take over the operation at North Harbor became sub-judice.
- To pre-empt the Supreme Court, MNIPI forced their way into the premises of North Harbor, intimidating the existing port workers. People were hurt in the process.
- This past week, total disorder characterized the operation at the North Harbor, with long queues, traffic congestion, delayed withdrawal of cargoes, delayed departure of vessels, perishable goods gone to waste and passengers left to wait long hours for boarding. This is all because MNIPI is not ready and does not have a takeover plan, they do not have the needed complement of port workers, and most importantly they do not have the equipment required for efficient operations, in clear violation of the Contract and the TOR.

The PUSA has long advocated a modern and efficient domestic port of Manila to be able to lower costs and to increase efficiency. But now, a company behaving like a monopoly has been allowed to take over North Harbor at the expense of our customers, the passengers and cargo owners, and the consuming public.

The immediate intervention by the Government to resolve this urgent matter is called upon to protect public interest.

Thyroglobulin
The article is based on a systematic review of 10 studies involving 1,000 patients with thyroid cancer. The authors found that the use of thyroglobulin as a marker for disease recurrence was associated with a significantly higher risk of death compared with the use of thyroglobulin alone.

The group intends to raise funds to support the National Cancer Institute's research on the causes of cancer, and to provide information to the public about the disease.

Eye-a-blinking off?
A new eye-tracking study by researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, suggests that people who blink frequently while reading are more likely to be bored or disengaged. The study, published in the Journal of Experimental Psychology, found that people who blink frequently while reading are more likely to be bored or disengaged than those who blink less frequently. The researchers suggest that this may be because frequent blinking is a sign of fatigue or distraction, which can lead to a loss of focus and engagement with the text.

Power Incident
The power incident at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) is a case study in the importance of proper planning and execution. The incident occurred on the night of October 1, 1990, when a power outage at the UIC power plant caused a loss of power to the campus. The outage was caused by a failure in the power plant's main transformer, which was replaced by a temporary transformer. The outage lasted for approximately 12 hours, during which time the campus was without power. The incident caused significant disruption to the campus, including the loss of data and the cancellation of classes. The incident also highlighted the need for a more robust power system at the UIC.

There are a number of factors that can affect the results of a survey. The most common is non-response bias, which occurs when those who do not respond to the survey differ in some important way from those who do. Other factors include sampling error, measurement error, and coverage error.

Gold treks higher on US corporate recovery

Gold prices have risen to their highest level in two years, driven by a combination of factors including a strong US corporate recovery, a weak dollar, and a flight to safety. The price of gold has climbed to over $1,200 per ounce, up from around $1,000 just a few months ago. Analysts predict that the price will continue to rise as the US economy shows signs of recovery and the dollar remains weak.

Think tank rejects yuan revaluation

A prominent US think tank has rejected the idea of a yuan revaluation, arguing that it would be detrimental to the US economy. The think tank, the Heritage Foundation, has published a report stating that a revaluation of the yuan would lead to a loss of jobs in the US and a decrease in the standard of living. They argue that the current exchange rate is fair and that a revaluation would be a mistake.

February 22—The first day of the month, I discovered that the newly installed heating ducts in my house had a hole. The ducts in the living room had a hole just at the top of the duct. The hole was about 1/2 inch in diameter. The hole was caused by the duct being too small for the hole in the wall. The hole was not a problem, but it was a nuisance. I had to call a contractor to fix it. The contractor said that the hole was not a problem, but it was a nuisance. I had to call a contractor to fix it.
